TWO SETS!

Of State Officers Ready for Business at Frankfort.

OTHER INTERESTING CAPITOL NEWS

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 26.—The State Board of Election Commissioners, sitting as a Board of Contest, this afternoon awarded certificates of election to the Democratic contestants for the minor State offices.

The new State officers called upon G. V. Beckham, in Parlor A, at the Capitol Hotel, after which they were worn in by Sam J. Shackelford, Clerk of the Court of Appeals. According to all the requirements of the law, they are now the legal and duly qualified officers of the Community, ready to transact business, and give warning to all persons that any business they may attempt to transact with the Republican claimants is upon their own responsibility.

Attitor Coulter and Treasurer
Hager will send out letters to all revenue paying officers in the State, such as Sheriffs, Circuit and County Clerks and Trustees of the jury fund, that all reports must be made to them,
and warning them not to turn over any of the State funds to the Republicans.

The bondsmen of the Republicans will be responsible for any subsequent corruption or irregularities. The Republicans are only de facto officers, and the Democratic lawyers say that their official functions ceased the moment the contestants qualified.

The new officers went to the State buildings and formally demanded possession of the buildings and records.

They were received politely, but all met with a positive, "I must decline to do so."

When Treasurer Hager approached
Mr. Day, the latter said: "I've locked up office, and I can't turn it over to you tonight," laughing as he replied.

Attorney General Breckinridge has the advantage of the others. His office is himself, and all he needs is the recognition of the State Fiscal Court, over which Judge Cantrell presides, and of the Court of Appeals.

With reference to the use of the militia, the commissioners had some plain words to say, declaring that the Louisville Legion was an illegally organized political machine. Referring to the "Honest Election League" as the off-spring of the Republican Board of Trade, the commission says: "There is no room to doubt that this league, while professing to be actuated by motives of the most exalted patriotism, was nevertheless intensely partisan in character and willing to go any length in the subversion of popular rights to accomplish the defeat of the Democratic ticket."

The arraignment of Bradley who brought out the militia is strong. The law is quoted on the subject and the references to the military are particularly interesting. Judge Toney comes in for a few thrusts from the sharp Democrats.

pen of the commissioners, while Judge Evans' charge to the grand jury is declared to have been a part of the conspiracy to create "what might be truthfully denominated reign of terror to intimidate voters."

Under the caption "the secret of the ballot," the thin ballots in Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties are discussed. They summarize the matter as follows: "In a number of counties both Democratic and Republicans whose votes have been contested before this board, the character of ballot is open to adverse criticism, but mature reflection convinces this board that in only three counties considered are the irregularities in this regard so patent that it will justify summary action. It is the deliberate judgment of the board that the ballots employed in the counties of Johnson, Martin and Magoffin are illegal ballots."

After throwing out the vote of the city of Louisville and of Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties, the board summarizes the vote of the State, showing an average Democratic majority of about 3,000.

MARRIED IN EVANSVILLE.

A Prosperous Crittenden Farmer Finds a Wife in Michigan

Martin Gahagan, of Weston, Ky., and Mrs. Amelia Sabin of Coldwater, Mich., were married in Evansville Wednesday. The wedding was the result of correspondence. The bride and groom never knew one another until they met in this city.

The groom is a well known and prosperous farmer of Weston, Ky. He is in his seventieth year and carries himself with a degree of erectness for one of that age. He was born in Armstrong county, Pennsylvania, and came from the sturdy Pennsylvania German stock. This is his third venture in the matrimonial field and he has a family of five children, all grown.

Mrs. Amelia Sabin, the bride, is a dressmaker and gives her age at 53 years. Her residence was in Coldwater, Mich. She is a lady who bears a determined expression on her countenance. Her face is beginning to become wrinkled, while silvery locks are displacing the jet black hair of a few years ago. Her eyes are very penetrating and have not lost their girlhood lustre, while her figure robed in a blue traveling suit, made her an impressive bride for one of her age. This is her second marriage.

Mr. Gahagan, who is a well to do farmer living near Weston, Ky., read an advertisement in a matrimonial journal several weeks ago. It read: "I am a widow." He answered the advertisement and a courtship followed. The climax was marriage.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gahagan left for Weston, Ky., where they will reside in the future. The marriage ceremony took place at the Victoria hotel.—Evansville Courier.

Mr. Gahagan, as the Courier says, is a prosperous farmer, he is one of the well-to-do substantial men of the county, and his many friends throughout the county will join with the Press in extending congratulations and in hoping that the twain will find the union a happy one, and as the shades of evening began to fall after while each will find in the other that comfort that cheers and makes placid old age.

August Flower.

"It is a surprising fact," says Prof. Hutton, "that in my travels in all parts of the world, for the last ten years, I have met more people having used Green's August Flower than any other remedy, for dyspepsia, deranged liver and stomach and for constipation. I find for tourists and salesmen, or for persons filling office positions, where health and general bad feelings from irregular habits exist, that Green's August Flower is a grand remedy. It does not injure the system by frequent use, and is excellent for sour stomachs and indigestion." Small bottles free at J. H. Morse's. Sold by all dealers in all civilized countries.

The Liar's Reply.

Thanks to the Board of Health for making no secret of their names, also for explaining their action in the past and inviting inspection of their proceedings in the future. I have no desire to do either. So again I hand you my short leg's support a good pair of lungs (equal to a Comanche Indian,) hence I have the power to howl, but only for justice. In regard to Dr. J. J. Clark's quarantining my family, will eat him I do not have the faintest remembrance of him doing so, or any other family or person in my neighborhood. If he, will only study a moment I think he will also remember that the room was under the quarantine law when he was called to see Mr. Hull. Quarantined by one of the Board (Dr. Moreland), four days before he (Dr. Clark) made his visit. I also have a pest house in our little villa which was ordered and constructed under the supervision of one of the Board. The same is free to anyone having a contagion, and will guarantee it will not cost them or the county one cent. My hopes are that Dr. Clark will be well supplied with sheets. The next visit he makes me, as you all know I am short (just stuff them in your inside pocket.)

I am not acquainted with Charlie Morgan, have nothing against him, and it artificially digests the food and aids Nature in strengthening and reconstructing the exhausted digestive organs. It is the latest discovered digestant and tonic. No other preparation can approach it in efficiency. It instantly relieves and permanently cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Heartburn, Flatulence, Sour Stomach, Nausea, Sick-Headache, Gastralgia, Cramps, and all other results of imperfect digestion. ## In Memory

Of Ezra Riggs, aged 23 years, he died Jan. 11, 1900, after long and patient suffering. He was a bright little child, loved and admired by all. He was one of earth's fairest flowers, and model of kindness and purity. A widowed mother's heart is broken at the parting, but in Ezra's voice, that we loved so dear here, mingled with the angels around the throne, singing praises to God. Dear mother, if we are useful, we will see him again, and may his memory bring us nearer to Jesus.

God took him from your side,
To dwell with him above;
And there he sits upon the throne,
And sings his dying love.

Have You Heard of It?

You may have heard about SCOTT'S EMULSION and have a vague notion that it is cod-liver oil with its bad taste and smell and all its other repulsive features. It is cod-liver oil, the purest and the best in the world, but made so palatable that almost everybody can take it. Nearly all children like it and ask for more.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

looks like cream; it nourishes the wasted body of the baby, child or adult better than cream or any other food in existence. It bears about the same relation to other emulsions that cream does to milk. If you have had any experience with other so-called "just as good" preparations, you will find that this is a fact.

The hypophosphites that are combined with the cod-liver oil give additional value to it because they tone up the nervous system and impart strength to the whole body.

LACE CURTAINS.

How to Wash and Iron Them at Home.

After taking down, shake the curtains to remove all dirt. Then put them to soak till next day in a tub of cold water—rain water, if possible—to which ammonia has been added to the proportion of a tablespoonful to three gallons.

Next morning squeeze them out of this water and put into a tub of hot suds. In this they should be well stirred about; but rubbing must be avoided, as it is liable to break the thread. If very dirty, they may need a second lot of suds.

When all dirt is removed, either pass them carefully through the wringer, or squeeze as dry as possible.

Hot starch is best for curtains and it needs to be made rather thin. Mix the dry starch with enough cold water to moisten it; pour boiling water on, stirring briskly all the time till the starch turns clear and transparent looking; then add an equal quantity of hot water to it, and it will probably be about the right consistency, though people's ideas as to how stiff curtains should be differ so much that it is difficult to give a hard and fast rule.

After starching run the curtains through the wringer or squeeze as dry as possible. Pull gently into shape when hanging on the line, leave till nearly dry, take in, roll up tightly and cover over in a basket till next day.

The ironing needs to be very carefully done, or you will break the threads. Flats must be nice and hot, but not hot enough to scorch. Rub them over before beginning with a bit of white wax wrapped in muslin, wiping well afterwards with a clean soft duster.

Iron on the wrong side till thoroughly dry, using as much pressure as possible. Fold lightly, so that there may be no creases.

Some people prefer not to iron curtains, because of the danger of catching the flat and tearing them.

In this case the curtains should be firmly pinned on clean, stretched sheets, which have been tinted to the floor of a room that can be spared for a day or two. Every little point must be pulled out and pinned to the sheet and the curtains must not be moved until they are thoroughly dry.

A FEW RECIPES.

Sausage Toast.

Scald the sausages in boiling water, fry to light brown, chop brown and spread on bits of moistened toast.

Beefsteak Toast.

Cook cold steak or tongue very fine, cook in a little water, put in cream or milk, thicken, season with butter, salt and pepper and pour over slices of toast. Boiled ham may be used in the same way, adding the yoke of an egg.

Breakfast Puffs.

On baking day roll out the dough to about the thickness of doughnuts, cut in two-inch squares and fry like doughnuts in fresh lard. Eat with butter the same as biscuits.

Mixed Sandwiches.

Cook fine, cold ham, tongue and chileken; to a pint of the mixed meat add half cup of melted butter, one tablespoonful of salad oil, one tablespoonful of mustard if desired, the yolk of a beaten egg, and a pinch of cayenne. Spread on thin slices of buttered bread. Ham or other meats may be used in this way alone.

Steak Pudding.

Spread fine one pound of suet, mix into it a quart of flour, a little salt, and enough water to mix as stiff as pie crust; roll out half an inch thick. Lay pieces of meat or mutton steak with oysters and a minced onion on the paste, roll up in a cloth and boil till done. Make a thickened gravy of the liquor and pour over it after removing from the cloth.

Mutton With Tomatoes.

Spread bread crumbs over the bottom of a baking dish and place in alternate layers of mutton scraps and fresh or canned tomatoes. Season each layer with pepper, salt and bits pieces of meat or mutton steak with bread crumbs on the top. Bake 45 minutes and serve hot.

Ladies' Skirt.

The four-piece plated skirt shown herewith is the newest thing in correct fashions, the plain skirts having been relegated to the realm of the past. The shape is graceful, and while a modicum of flounce at the bottom is essential, it is not so pronounced as is shown in many of the extreme styles that are seen in fashion plates only.

To Avoid Wrinkles.

The latest system for smoothing out wrinkles on the face is a very simple form of massage, which does not necessitate assistance of any kind. Rubbing at the ears the fingers, not merely the tips, toward the nose with a simple cream of vaseline, and the treatment is continued until the grease has quite disappeared.

CLOTHES.

Weakness of Mothers and Good Nature of Fathers.

To furnish the examples of simple attire lies obviously with the young, or largely with them, because years have not yet robbed them of a woman's birthright of beauty and grace. If they dared—if only a few of them united together, dared—to make their own standard; and to wear only that which should be, first, hygienic, then comfortable, then in good taste, the millennium in dress would have begun. By good taste we mean more than simply artistic or graceful. Grace there must be, and artistic effects in the sense of harmonious adjustment of color and form; but good taste also in the sense of being suited to the wearer's means, to her condition in life, to her surroundings, is the thing we so much lack. No girl can be said to dress in good taste whose dress is befuddled, haphazard and so elaborately made that it took more of her father's wages to pay for it than he could afford to give. Mothers are weak and foolish enough to permit and desire to put all the flattery upon the daughters, forgetting that no girl can be called well dressed, no matter what her attire, while her mother spends little or nothing on her own clothes. It does not follow that the mother should be gayly dressed while the daughter is dainty. In most cases neither should be gay, and in no case is it necessary that either should be gay in order to be attractive or beloved.

Handsome Hands.

What woman do you know who retains all winter the beauty of her hands? Not long after the cold weather comes her skin begins to show that something is amiss. The hands are the first to proclaim their grievance, and they grow so rough that it is almost impossible to keep them clean. In spite of maneuvering and of the daily use of the finger brush, the nails are a constant mortification and the finger tips are black and grimy looking. A source of trouble is that we all wear so much wool nowadays. Our skirts and coats are never of any other material, and even for house wear we have adopted as a favorite the coarse textured stuff of tweeds, chevets, serges and the like.

When the hands rub constantly against this, the effect is something like that which results from the use of coarse woolen mittens—and we all know how bad they are for the skin. Since silk and the softer woolens have gone so completely out of fashion the hands have been sore beset. The only remedy lies in the suggestion that whenever possible the delicate skin should be protected by the wearing of a fancy silk apron. It may be black if you prefer, but the aprons made of white China silk are easily washed and are dainty to look upon.

Ladies' Draped Waist.

This dainty draped waist of pastel blue with yoke and sleeves of tucked mouseline de sole, is trimmed with bands of black ribbon velvet fastened by tay cut steel buckles. The glove-fitting lining which closes in the centre back is faced to a square yoke depth with tucked mouseline. The plain backs are applied at the lower edge of the yoke, fitting smooth to the waist.

The front is draped in soft folds slightly bunched, which gives a stylish full effect so becoming to slender figures.

W. H. TURNER, Mgr. Wills Creek Coal Co., Butte, Oslo, writes: I have been affected with Kidney and Bladder trouble for years, passing gravel or stones, accompanied by excruciating pains. Other medicines only gave temporary relief. After taking Foley's Kidney Cure, the result was surprising. A few doses started the kidney dust, like fine stone, etc., and now I have no pain across my kidneys and feel like a new man. Foley's Kidney Cure taste some $10.00 worth of good.

ONE YEAR ONE DOLLAR

Right now with all of these rains and snows, and freezes and thaws, there are more mud than blood-waders in Kentucky.

The National Court of Claims cuts Dewey's claim for prize money in half. That kinder sounds like our own Court of Claims.

The English bid fair to conquer the Boers before Uncle Sam kills enough of the Filipinos to safely set up business in that country.

With measles, smallpox, whooping cough, politics and bad roads, there is no special demand in this county for themes to talk about.

With two sets of State officials, Kentucky ought to be the best governed State in the Union, but we'd give our interest in both for the discovery of the assassins.

Spar mining has completely submerged our gold and silver booms in this country. A year ago, we were all hunting gold and silver mines, now a spar mine is all the style.

Basil Duke posing before a legislative committee in the attitude of fear less, the passage of the McCord bill hurt the common people is a sight to start all the horses in the state a laughing.

What is the difference between buying a Winchester to shoot a man with and buying a newspaper to defame, misrepresent and malign him until, as a result of that malignity, the trigger is pulled and the victim falls bleeding?

Carnegie's income yields him one dollar every time the clock ticks and his and Rockfeller's combined is about four dollars per tick. These are the infants whose industries we must have a tariff to protect, and shipping subsidies to maintain.

Only two more weeks of the Legislature. If that body will submit a constitutional amendment preparing the way for the good old face to face way of voting, this session will add another nosegay to its wreath of immortals.

The L. & N. hired newspapers want the assassins caught, but frown upon every effort made looking to the accomplishment of that thing. In other words they want a ferry, but no road leading to it. Sincerity is as much of a jewel as consistency, but neither of these are sought by the newspapers.

Senator Joe Blackburn in a Washington interview comes out strongly for the old viva voce way of voting. He says: I do not believe that the present legislature could do anything so well calculated to entitle it to the gratitude of our people as to open the way for a return to the old system.

Our Populist friends insist that the condition of affairs in this State is due to the two old parties. With all due respect to our esteemed friends, it occurs to us that the perpetuity of the human race is due to man and woman; without these important factors there would soon be an end to all things.

The Court of Appeals has rendered a decision to the effect that if money is placed in the hands of a stakeholder upon a wager either party may notify the stakeholder not to pay it to the winner, and if he does so the amount may be recovered from him. This will no doubt materially lessen the betting evil, especially during elections, and the Court of Appeals is to be commended for its decision.—Kentucky State Democrat.

We, the democrats and citizens of Lola, condemn in the strongest terms, the cowardly assassination of Gov. Goebel. Some people are not contented with slandering and heaping abuse upon him while living, but want to continue it on the dead. If they only had one fourth of the brain, manhood and courage of the lamented governor, they would have more than they have now. ## KANSAS CITY

Gets the National Democratic National Convention.

IT WILL MEET JULY FOURTH

Washington, Feb. 22.—The next National Democratic Convention will be held at Kansas City, Mo., July 4.

This was the decision of the Democratic National Committee, which met at the Hotel Raleigh today to fix the time and place of holding the convention. Milwaukee was the only other city which competed for the honor of entertaining the convention, and the poor showing she made when the vote was taken (the result being Kansas City 40, Milwaukee 9,) caused general surprise.

The claims of the rival cities as to hotel accommodations, railroad and telegraphic facilities were presented in open session by representatives of each city, and subsequently in executive session. Former Gov. W. J. Stone on behalf of Kansas City, and National Committeeman E. C. Wall, on behalf of Milwaukee, explained the financial inducements which each city was willing to make. Each offered the committee $50,000, but, in addition Kansas City, was willing to furnish hotel accommodations for the members of the committee and the hall, with decorations and music, free of expense to the committee.

The meeting of the committee was presided over by Chairman Jones. Every State and Territory was represented, either by the National Committeeman or by proxy.

There was a vacancy from the District of Columbia, caused by the death of Laurence Gardner. James L. Norris had been elected to fill this vacancy, but his election was contested, and a committee of three was appointed to report upon the contest.

Then the selection of a place for the convention was taken up and several hours were devoted to the arguments of the boomers of the rival cities.

The vote upon fixing the date of the convention was: In favor of July 4, 27 votes; June 14, 21 votes; May 9, 1 vote.

The National Committee issued the following call:

1,000,000 DEATHS!

FROM CHOLERA DURING THE PAST YEAR.

The Germs of This Fatal Disease are Lurking Everywhere! Thousands of Dollars Saved by This Wonderful Discovery.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars has been lost in the poultry business on account of the devastation among the flocks, caused by cholera, roup, gape and other fatal diseases.

There have been many remedies advanced, but none seem to be so successful as the American Poultry Mixture.

This will cure chickens in the last stage of cholera and roup, and is excellent for gapes. Do your fowls suffer from violent diarrhoea, dropping of the wings, stupor or excessive thirst? These are the first symptoms of cholera. Cholera is a germ disease and being infectious spreads rapidly through the entire flock.

Take time by the forelock; don't stop to experiment with unreliable or untried remedies. Use this mixture at once and the sanitary measures they recommend in connection.

Don't give the fowls up. Cholera is a terrible disease but this remedy cures it every time. It is also guaranteed for roup, which can be told by hoarse breathing, swelled eyes, discharge at the nostrils, resembling catarrh.

Fifty dollars is offered for any case the Mixture will not cure. If some of your fowls are diseased it will prevent the rest from catching it. Try it. It is cheap, reliable and effective; a scientific preparation, goes more than three times as far as any other remedy, does more good than all of them combined. It is used and endorsed by the most experienced and largest breeders of plain and fancy poultry in all parts of the world. The manufacturers guarantee every package or refund purchase money. If your druggist don't sell American Poultry Mixture, he's behind the age. In that case send $1.00 for sample box to American Mfg. Co., Terre Haute, Ind.

Tolu, Ky., Feb. 26, 1900.

I have been suffering with my back and kidneys for many years, and could find no medicine or doctor that could do me any good, until I purchased one box of our "Native Herbs Tablets," and now I feel no pain at all. I am glad to tell my friends of this medicine.

Respectfully,
J. R. DRAKE.

Sustained Judge Nunn.

Last year in the police court J. H. Orme was fined for alleged violation of the license law. He appealed the case to the Circuit Court, and one point of his defense was that the election of city officers was not legally held, and they therefore had no power to try him. Judge Nunn held that the trial was good and valid, and upon this decision the case was taken to the Court of Appeals, which last week sustained Judge Nunn.

HEALTH HINTS.

Old Fashioned, But Reliable, and Worth Remembering.

Things which one should have ready at hand in case of need are, first and foremost, essence of cinnamon. When exposed in a sickroom it will kill the bacilli which are floating round. A decoction of cinnamon is recommended as a drink to be taken freely in localities where malarial or fevers prevail, for cinnamon has the power to destroy all infectious microbes.

Peppermint is an old friend not on any account to be snubbed. Nothing is better for a bee sting than the application of a drop of peppermint.

In case one is near the premises or apartments where there is diphtheria the simplest, yet effectual, mode of fumigation is to drop a little sulphur on a hot stove or on a few hot coals carried through the rooms. In this way the spread of the disease may be stopped.

A disinfectant to use in different parts of the house, which will sweeten the whole place, may be made very cheap. Take one pound of common copperas and eight ounces of crude emetic acid, and dissolve in one gallon of water. Use frequently.

A little carbolic acid added to the water in which burns, bruises and cuts are washed greatly lessens the soreness.

After applying iodine to the skin it smarts so intensely to be borne it is well to know that it can be washed off with ammonia.

Recreations of Actresses.

Among actresses, first we find that Sarah Bernhardt has a taste for painting, sculpture and cycling, while in summer she delights in fishing, boating, tennis and literature, sometimes also cliff-scaling. Ellen Terry is less ambitious for she finds sufficient distraction in reading, driving and yachting, while her sister, Marlon Torry, likes going to the theatre on an off-night to see what her brothers and sisters in art are doing. She is also passionately fond of flowers, loves music and enjoys a game of golf. Mrs. Brown Potter, although she made such a wicked Miladi, amuses herself in a sufficiently innocent way for she passes much of her time growing flowers and is fond of all outdoor pursuits. Miss Ada Rehan cycles a good deal, reads much, and loves travel. Mrs. Patrick Campbell is a superb musician and cycles. Handsome and stately Genevieve Ward distracts herself with riding, rowing, swimming, modelling and painting. Beautiful Julia Neilson also loves the water, for she swims and is at home on a yacht; she too rides a bicycle. Her cousin, Lily Llanbury swims likewise, cycles and plays tennis. Gertrude Kingstone loves every outdoor pursuit, especially cycling and skating. Mme. de Navarro, who was once Mary Anderson, rides a great deal, loves music, cards, singing and reading aloud. Dainty Anne Hughes cycles and swims equally well, and Mrs. Kendall finds sufficient recreation in reading.

There have been many rumors about earrings becoming popular. They were the much-talked-of innovation of the First Assembly ball in New York. But instead of a gem glistening in the lobe of the ear, "drop" earrings were worn so big that they almost suggested the barabaric.

Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, who delights in adopting every new fashion fad, wore her massive earrings as she had never known what it was to be without them. They consisted of turquoise exquisitely in color and graduated in size. There were three for each ear, and when Mrs. Belmont moved her head the lower one just escaped touching her shoulder.

Mrs. Drexel also wore remarkably beautiful earrings—a diamond screw for each ear and a costly "drop" pearl. Then Miss Ethel Davies, Mrs. Bradley Martin's charming niece, wore much-talked-of earrings. In the lobe of her shell-like ear a diamond glistened, and from it swung a big turquoise.

Three, brilliantly matched rubies, which glistened as if they were diamonds, were worn as earrings by Mrs. George Gould. They were the most conspicuous earrings at the assembly. They were all the same size—three rubies for each ear and each gem worth a small fortune.

STILL A JERSEY LILY

ALTHOUGH SHE IS NOT SO YOUNG AS SHE USED TO BE.

She indulges in some reminiscences and acknowledges she was a royal favorite—of course, Americans have a warm place in her heart.

Mrs. Hugo de Bathe (the Jersey Lily) is the most talked-of woman on the stage to-day.

Her personality, her character, her chances for reacquainting society, her husband, her play, all form themes for discussion at every sort of function. "When I was a little girl," she said to a reporter the other day, "I was different from other little girls—at least, I think I was because I never found any other with whom I could be perfectly happy. My girlhood was lived with my brothers. I had six of them. How I loved them, and how devoted they were to me! My father was dean of the Isle of Jersey. We had every possible advantage.

Long Letters.

Do those of us who have many friends, and who desire to retain them generally retain what a large slice of time correspondence takes? In planning out our day's work, we say to ourselves that we must really write to so and so to-day without fail; but we reckon no time for the task—it is one of those little things that "don't take a minute." Ah, well! but we sit down to it after tea—one sheet to little Miss Muffet, two to Jill one and a half to Jack, and behold there is very little change left out of two or three hours we had counted on spending in some other way. For we cannot send to our friends a brief and bald telling of what is befalling us, one of those unsatisfactory scraps which, on receiving, we feel is not worth the stamp that it cost. Many people will tell you it is not worth while to write long letters—"just a line to say where you are, and tell them the rest when you meet." But that is a poor plan, since love and friendship are both plants which thrive under cultivation. Common interest dies out if not kept alive by use and something to feed upon.

A Glass of Water at Bedtime.

The human body is constantly undergoing tissue changes. Water has the power of increasing these changes which multiply the waste products, but at the same time they are renewed by its agency, giving rise to increased appetite, which in turn provides fresh nutriment. If you do not accustom yourself to drink water regularly you are liable to have the waste products form faster than they are removed. Any obstruction to the free working of natural laws at once produces disease. Great weakness and languor or rising in the morning is generally due to a large secretion of these waste products, and the remedy is to drink a tumblerful of water—either hot or cold—just before retiring. This materially assists in the process during the night, and leaves the tissues fresh and strong, ready for the active work of the next day.

To many women and all men she is a mystery. Men confound her charm with beauty, and women—the un-groomed half who don't understand—put it down to a fat bank account; while the truth is that the smart girl is often plain, often in moderate circumstances, and even occasionally a wage earner, to whom a bank account is a poetical illusion.

The smart girl is never round shouldered or hollow chested and by standing properly she breathes properly. Every full, deep breath she draws strengthens the muscles of her sides and abdomen. She is bound not to grow into a fat, ungainly woman, who can never catch her breath or a train, for a proper poise of the body means good digestion and good health.

It is probably going too far to say that a girl sets about being "smart" in order to be healthy, but it is absolutely true that she is quite likely to grow stronger because of her correct way of carrying her body.

How many women sink into a little heap the moment they sit down—shoulders drooping, chest sunken, the whole weight of the body thrown on the end of the spine. The smart girl sits in the same erect, erect, erect way that she stands, and if she wishes to rest she leans back against her shoulders, and not in the middle of her back. In bending, whether at a desk, or a dishpan or a dinner table she bends from her wrist not from her shoulders, and she not only looks well, but avoids fatigue and the actual injuries that come from any strain on misplaced muscles.

Having learned the full value of a proper carriage, the smart girl sets about to study and understand every detail of her wardrobe, that she may not mar fine effects by trifling defects. It is not a question of the newest fashions and the richest materials, but of the hang of a skirt that makes it seem a part of the woman herself; of curving waist over shoulders and bust so skillfully that the material seems to adapt itself to express the very personality of the wearer; of making a garment whether it is loose or tight, suggest the charm of the person. This is smartness in dressing and cannot be accomplished over a slovenly body.

The smart girl may not own the newest girdle, but whether her belt is a bit of ribbon, a twist of silk or band of satin, of one thing you may be sure, she will put it on in such a way that the pretty curve of her waist will not be disguised, for she knows that the waist line of a woman who breathes properly is a full inch lower in front than in the back, and she recognizes the beauty of the curve.

"It was in those early days," she continued, "that I developed my love for horses. I could take care of them as well as my brothers, and I understood them better. I could always break in the new horses, for I didn't know fear and somehow I had a way of winning them."

"And since then you have had a way of winning with them?"

Mrs. Langtry laughed.

"I have been fairly successful with my stables, haven't I, for a woman?"

"Why for a woman?"

"Well, a woman can't do so well, you know. She's handicapped, and she's not so independent, and can't look about and be right on the field like a man. It's the same in almost everything. She simply hasn't the same chance. She must think of her dignity, no matter what the transaction at hand may be; while a man hasn't any. At least, if he has, it's a sort of staple article that doesn't fluctuate, no matter what he does."

At the further end of the mantel was the photograph of a man in Scots Guards' uniform. He was very good looking, with strong English features.

"My husband, Mr. de Bathe. He's not at all fond of horses as I am. He has two motors, and before he went to Africa we used to have very merry journeys with them. They can never take the place of the horses, however, nor could they ever give me the same amount of amusement. And while we are speaking of horses," she continued, "I want to tell you that what with your American jockeys and trainees you are keeping the English turf constantly on the qui vive. Lord William Beresford's Democrat, the best two-year-old in England, who won everything last season, was bred by Pierre Lorillard and trained by Huggins, also American, and the best trainer we have in England. For my own part, I favor Australian horses, but for training and breeding the Americans are on top."

"Are they not in most things?"

"I think they are in many," said Mrs. Langtry earnestly. "They have always been kind to me and received me well. I am sure they excel in generosity and chivalry, and I never see an American flag anywhere. In the world that it does not thrill me not only with respect, but affection and gratitude. America has a warm spot in my heart, and I hold it close next to England, which is my home."

The Best Way.

In making buttonholes it is a great help if a tiny strip of stiff white paper is cut just the least bit smaller than the buttonhole and placed through the hole, so that the sewer has but one side at a time to sew with. If the material be dark, it is a decided help in more clearly defining the edge, and thus saving eye-sight, as well as preventing any catching of the threads or the other side of the opening.

People suffering from Kidney Diseases feel a gradual but steady loss of strength and vitality. They should lose no time in trying Foley's Kidney Cure, a Guaranteed Preparation. R. F. Barnes, Druggist.

Morley's Sarsaparilla and Iron is a tonic, a food purifier and a blood maker. It does not stop with merely curing certain diseases, like scrofula, sores, abscesses, but cleanses and builds up the whole system. All who have tried it say there is more cure in one bottle of Morley's Sarsaparilla and Iron than in six of any other kind. Told by J. H. Orme.

Neuralgia Banished.

There is no more severe or stubborn pain than neuralgia. A remedy that will cure it will cure any pain. Dr. G. S. I then got Morley's Wonderful Eight, which relieved her in five minutes and soon effected a permanent cure. Free trial bottles at Orme's drugstore.

Further use entirely cured her. This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all Throat, Chest and Lung diseases. Only 50¢ and $1. Trial bottles free at J. H. Orme's drugstore.

HISTORY OF A CASE.

Cured by Osteopathy at Franklin, Kentucky

(By Jno. B. Crofton, Bowling Green, Kentucky)

In the spring of 1895 my daughter, Ruth Crofton, complain'd of a pain in her right knee. My wife bathed it with some liniment, etc., but the knee continued to swell and the pain continued to lace ass. We then took her to physician, but as my daughter received no benefit from the treatment she was then taken to one of our oldest and best physicians. After trying the effect of two or three remedies this physician, in connection with another, came and put this limb in plaster of Paris.

Seeing that my daughter was growing weaker and that the knee was getting worse, I asked the attending physician to call another doctor. He readily consented and brought the doctor who had the reputation of being one of the best surgeons in Bowling Green. Of course they did not let me hear what passed between them, but I went to this surgeon the next day and asked him what he thought of the case. I asked him if he thought medicine was going to cure her. He said: "No, I am afraid not." Then I asked him if he thought an amputation necessary. His reply to this last question was: "You have the idea."

I arranged with the attending physician to take my daughter to Nashville to consult Dr. C. S. Briggs. The result of this consulta-tion was that my daughter was placed in Dr. C. S. Briggs' private Infirmary December 14, and a surgical appliance made for her. The object of this appliance was to pull her knee joint apart.

From the 14th of December until about the first of March she was a patient of Dr. C. S. Briggs. But she gained nothing by her stay there, and it was while on the train returning from a visit to her that I met a gentleman on that train, who in conversation with me after hearing the story of my daughter's affliction, told me of Judge Goodnight's wonderful recovery while under treatment by the Osteopaths.

I had little confidence in the new treatment, I assure you, but after thinking over it a few days, I made up my mind to go and talk to Judge Goodnight regarding the case. Even after hearing him tell what it had done for him and what he had seen it do for others, I still doubted. On the 9th of March I went to Franklin and consulted the operators at the Infirmary and arranged to take my daughter there for examination. They told me that her hip was involved. I handed them the money for a month's treatment of her, and told them I had no faith in their Osteopathy, but I would try it for a month. From early in the fall before this time my daughter had only slept two nights all night. The only sleep she got was while she was under the influence of opiates. When the effect of these passed off she was awake and suffering with more or less pain. After taking her to the Infirmary at Franklin twice for treatment they thought it best that we arrange to keep her in Franklin to give them the opportunity to produce the best results. I arranged for my wife and daughter to board in Franklin, near the Infirmary.

My daughter had not been under treatment two weeks before we saw an improvement in her condition. She got so that she could sleep and her appetite improved. She had a pair of crutches, but when she went there she was too weak to use them. The treatment gave her strength and she used her crutches, even going out doors when the weather would permit. One other matter I wish to state here, as I said she had taken quite a quantity of paragoric. This had caused constipation and soon after beginning the treatment my wife wished to give my daughter some laxative medicine. To this the doctors of the Infirmary objected, saying that they could overcome this constipation without medicine, and

IS THIS YOUR STORY?

"Every morning I have a bad taste in my mouth; my tongue is coated; my head aches and I often feel dizzy. I have no appetite for breakfast and what food I eat distresses me. I have a heavy feeling in my stomach. I am getting so weak that sometimes I tremble and my nerves are all unstrung. I am getting pale and thin. I am as tired in the morning as at night."

What does your doctor say? "You are suffering from impure blood." What is his remedy?

much to our surprise and gratification, did.

Soon after my daughter went to Franklin for treatment the Secretary of the State Board of Health convened was upon the Osteopaths. I heard reports that Dr. Still, the discoverer or founder of the science was crazy. The pastor of our church (Lancaster Presbyterian) in Bowling Green, Rev. W. T. Ferguson, D. D., told me to write to Rev. J. B. Mitchell, of the Cumberland Presbyterian church in Kirksville, and ask his opinion. This I did. Dr. Mitchell promptly replied that Dr. Still was a man of fine intellect and a sound mind, and that there had been some remarkable cures performed by the Osteopaths, especially, because Osteopathy had been resorted to after physicians of other schools had failed to effect a cure. Had Dr. McCormack succeeded in driving the Osteopaths from Kentucky I intended to take my daughter to another Infirmary beyond his reach. But he failed in his attempt to have them indicted, though many means were used.

When I decided to take my daughter to Franklin I wrote Dr. Briggs and asked him for my account, telling him I was going to try osteopathy. He sent the bill and said he had become attached to the child while there and he had no faith in the treatment, and after I was satisfied it would not benefit her he would like another chance. Dr. Briggs, and indeed all the physicians, had been very kind to her.

It was March when she went under the treatment and she continued until August and improved all the time. She took no medicine during this time. From two crutches she soon went to one crutch and a cane, then to the cane alone, and finally laid aside the cane. She weighed 69 pounds when she went to the Infirmary, and now she weighs 103 or 104. She limps a little yet, I think. Her limb that was wasted and withered is nearly the same as the other. One would have to look close to notice the difference.

Rick, Red Blood

Morley's Sarsaparilla and Iron not only purifies your blood but makes new, rich, red blood. If you have skin eruptions, boils, abscesses, rheumatism or scrofula, or if you have a run down, tired-out feeling, try this remedy and note the prompt results. $1.00 per bottle. Sold by J. H. Orme.

As to the history of the case I can refer to our pastor, Dr. W. T. Ferguson, or any of our church people here, or any of my kind neighbors who did so much to try to relieve the suffering of daughter.

I referred to the part which Dr. McCormack played. I can not see why he should persecute these Osteopaths. They do cure many cases. Many they do not. The Aliapatas and all their schools of medicine have the same experience. Personally, I have nothing against Dr. McCormack. I think he is a good physician and why he should wage warfare on these people is more than I can see. The better class of our citizens do not approve of it.

Are You, is the Way Col W. J. Bryan Greeted a Marionite

Deland, Fla., Feb. 23, 1900

DEAR EDITOR AND FRIENDS:

As I sit alone in the midst of the big pine forest resting after a weary stroll, with not a living object to be seen nor a sound to be heard, save the song of the wind in the top of the tall green pine trees, I am tempted again to write, and as I stretch my vision out across the pine woods I can not measure to its length, for I can't see the end of it. There is nothing but pine trees to be seen, no undergrowth except the grass, but I know the average Marionite is now wondering where the flowers are. Flowers are very scarce here; occasionally you find a Jessamine vine well covered with beautiful flowers, and now and then a rose can be had, but this is all, and it may seem strange to you to know that in the once fair red orange belt of the State, there is now not a single grove in all the land bearing oranges and the tourist who comes here expecting to pick the fruit fresh from the trees and eat until his appetite is satisfied, and then go away with his pockets filled, finds himself a little out of order when he is informed that all the oranges he eats will cost 15¢ each or 40¢ per dozen, and while I am on prices let me say that the choice beef stake is 25¢ per pound; eggs 25¢ dozen; frying chickens 40¢ each; corn 65¢ bushel; hay $1.10 cwt., and flour $5.50 per barrel. So you see how
